EDITORIAL

Ben Roberts Smith has vowed to clear his name and not walk away from the fight to do so. Speaking after his release from detention BRS made it very clear he wasn't happy with how police staged his arrest, that he is grateful to all members of his family for their support and to the Australians that have supported him.

The time it will take for the former SASR soldier to see his day in court is not clear but it's going to be a very long road but one he's willing to face. The BRS case is a line in the sand moment for the armed forces and for the defence of Australia because if he is found guilty where does the criminality begin and end in a war zone?

Mainstream newspapers and media outlets are all delightfully reporting that One Nation is seeing their polling numbers slip away. A new poll has suggested voters are concerned about cost of living and fuel prices leading to a return to the major parties. Regardless of the opinion polls the by election in the seat of Nepean is going to be the real test case for Hanson.

While Trump continues to show how diplomacy doesn't work in Iran back at home the President has welcomed Podcaster and comedian, Joe Rogan to the White House. Rogan along with a number of returned servicemen were at the White House for the signing of an executive order from the President granting access to medical research and treatment based on psychedelic drugs. Anyone that saw the Netflix documentary about this very thing will agree this is a major step in helping defence personnel with their PTSD. It's amazing how Trump can get some things so right and others so wrong!

Jacinta Allan obviously wasn't paying attention to the IMF who told governments across the world recently to not spend any money because they simply can't afford it, but what did Barbie do? Kept public transport free for another month. So our question is where's the cash Jacinta? How does this work from an economic perspective?

And finally, little known 24 year old Aussie sprinter Eddie Osei-Nketia has blazed a 9.84 into a head wind at a College meet in the US. The time had it been legal would've been the fastest time ever by an Australian. The next question will be how do we get all three of these rising stars back down under to put on a real show!

ARE ONE NATION IN TROUBLE?

Well no one pays attention to polls until they matter, but for One Nation these polls do matter and are indeed a reflection of the voter concern about ever increasing cost of living numbers. The problem for One Nation is that they haven't really convinced voters they have policies that can stem the tide and they need to change that and fast.

One Nation has so far grabbed hold of the protest vote. They've picked up people who are totally over the major parties and who want their vote to make a difference. One Nation has to some degree been their voice, Hanson and Joyce have been out and about criticising the government for their policies and decisions but have failed to say what they'd do differently and that's what needs to change.

If Hanson is serious about one day running the country then it's time the party started showing how they'd do it because if they don't then as much as they've gained traction they'll end up just being the party of the protest vote.

WE STAND WITH BEN ROBERTS SMITH

The world is like we know not what it was 30 years ago, it's barely what it was pre Covid. the wokes have been busy objecting to everything and while some of their ideas and concerns have validity a good portion of their outrage needs to go on the garbage heap, such are the charges against Ben Roberts Smith.

For years parts of the media and government have pursued Ben Roberts Smith for crimes committed at war and now he faces life imprisonment via criminal charges brought against him. But this former war hero cannot and must not go to prison because if he does what are we saying to our defence personnel? What are we saying to those who do stand between us and bullets? And what are we saying about who we send to war?

The SASR are our elite fighting force we send them to do things no one else can do or wants to do, we send them to kill people and yet when Roberts Smith did his job he's the only one facing charges and ramifications? If BRS is going down then why aren't the prisons of Australia full of politicians? Full of people complicit in sending defence forces to war zones? Why not? Because this whole BRS issue is a witch hunt and a hunt that is going after a man that has only ever wanted to serve his country.

My question though is who decided BRS needed to face these charges? Who decided that he should be arrested for the cameras in front of his kids? Who decided to turn this whole thing into a media circus? Because someone did, somewhere, someone made these calls and you have to ask why? Why has it been decided to pursue this man? Are we seeing the end to Australia wanting to have an elite military force? Are we thinking that we don't want to be involved in conflict anymore? That war is not who we are and we should negotiate rather than send troops?

Whatever the story BRS is being pursued for crimes he should not be prosecuted for and it matters to us because if we do allow one of our most decorated war heroes to go to prison for defending the freedoms we value then we as a country are lost.

CLAUDE AND AI

The new world of Ai is a staggering thing and I'd suggest that most people have dabbled in the new world of tech but reading about the various Ai platforms the trick is asking it the right questions.

Remember when Google came out? Or we could search the internet? We could ask it all sorts of things and we still do but Ai is different, it's a tool that can help with pretty much anything but it needs to understand you and your business before it can be of real value.

I use to it to help with marketing, with planning and with direction, but it wasn't of any major use to me until I explained what it was I did, what my business did and where I wanted it to go. Once I'd established the basis of knowledge for Claude it has been a major source of learning for me and genuinely helped what I do.

Ai is touted as the thing that will take over the world but it won't unless we actually allow it to because right now we're still the one in charge and that's the way it should stay.

SOUL

Mindset

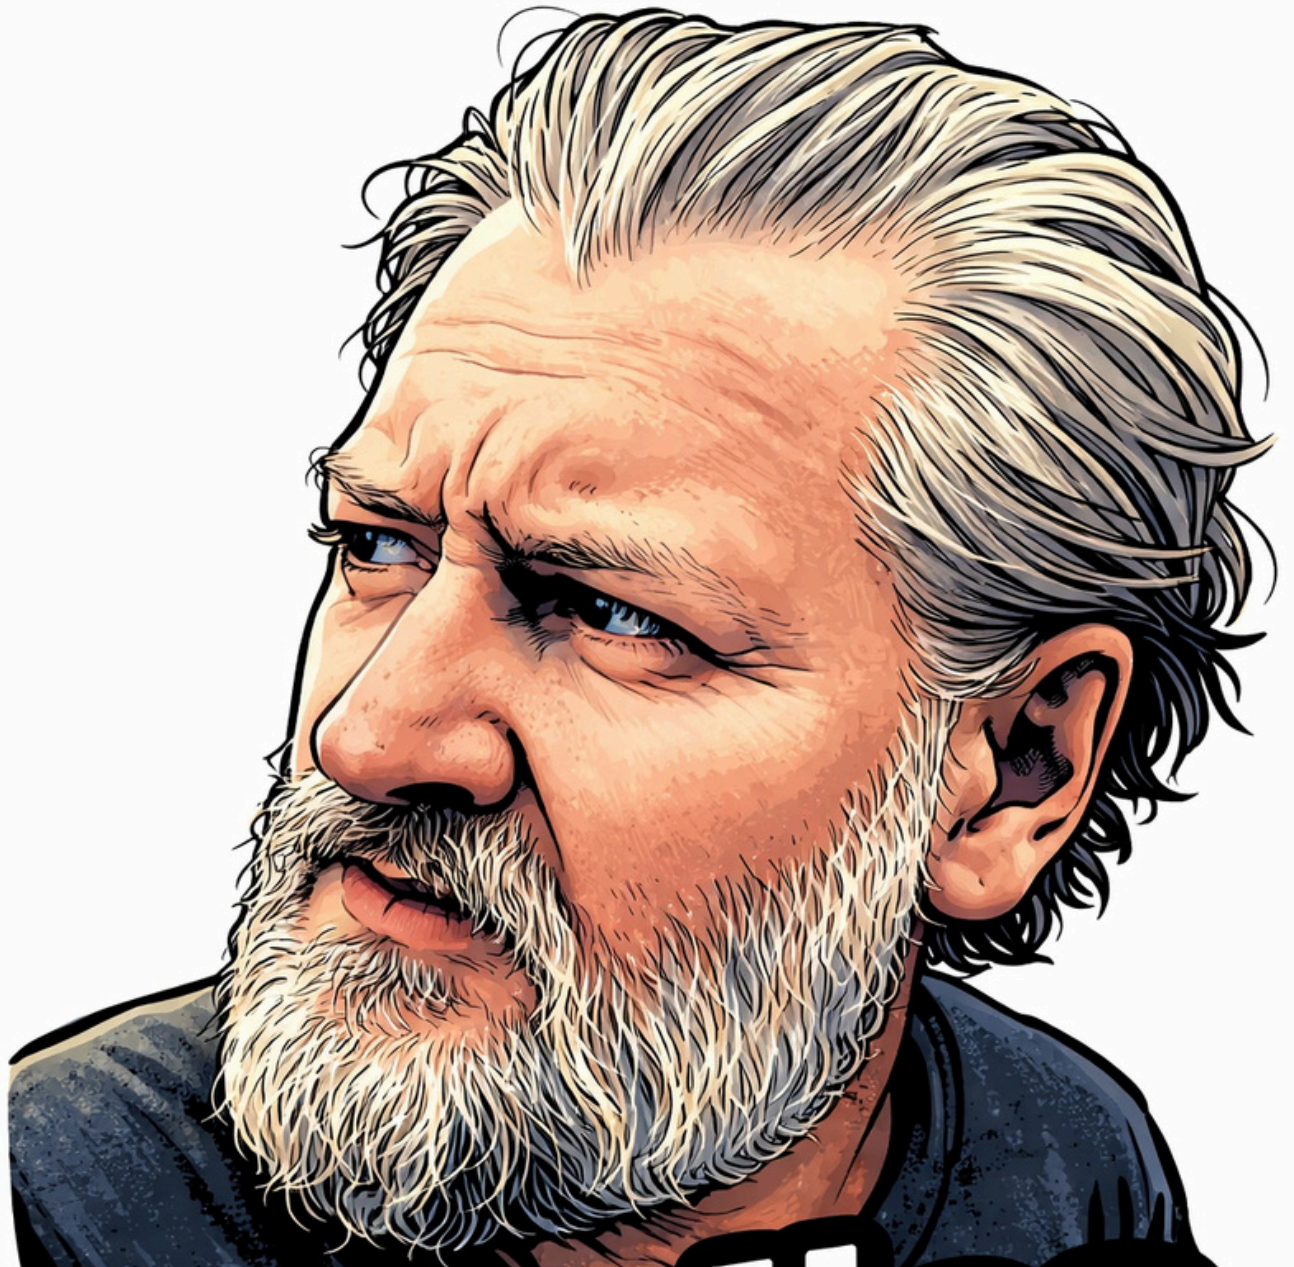

How many times have we heard the line, success is a mind set? That the power of the mind is what sets those who succeed apart from those that fail? Well no matter what anyone thinks about the idea of mindset it's true because without the right mind set you're never going to get to where you want to go.

Mindset is made up of so many different things it's not just about a couple of hell yeahs we've got this, it's about goal setting, planning, execution and delivery. It's about thinking like you are the person you want to be and then actually being that person. If you want to be an entrepreneur then start acting like one, a race car driver, live like one, you want to train horses go live it. Don't misunderstand me here, acting like the person you want to be isn't about an aspirational life style, rather its about doing all the hard things that go with what it is you want to do.

You want to be a horse trainer, go work at the local horse stables, clean up horse shit, watch what trainers do, ask questions, read, learn and immerse yourself in the world. You want to be an entrepreneur? Read, listen, write, talk to people that have done it, lived it and are passionate about it. It's all well and good for the great Tom Brady to say let's fucking go, but the work he put in to getting to that point before games was barely comprehensible to the average person.

Success is a mind set and it starts from what time you set the alarm for, it's what you do when your feet hit the floor in the morning, it's what you eat, how you talk to people, what your daily goals are and what your longer term plan is to make what you want a reality. Without a plan you don't have success and without the right mindset you will struggle to get out of bed in the morning.

Get your head in the game, start with what it is you want to do, who you want to be and tune your head into it...do it now because having the right mindset is realising that it's you that affects the outcomes not anyone else, it's all up to you. Let's fucking go!
