Well Big Mick says his arrest was all over a parking ticket and while I suspect Victoria Police might suggest otherwise it's hard not to think that the Allan Labor government are clearing house. The state election is now less than six months away and Allan stinks to high heaven so now is the time to try and push as many people under the bus as possible. Is Mick collateral damage? Maybe maybe not but anyone remotely on the wrong side of the fence when it comes to the state government best look out.

Luba! Hey welcome to the team! You've passed your labor party scandal initiation! You were busted doing moronic crap, you fronted the media, said sorry and now you have the keys to the kingdom! Congratulations!

I'm sorry but when is the next US election? And can someone please tell the Democrats to sort their lives out?! Trump is now planning to implement a tariff of 12.5% on Australia for, wait for it, failing to prevent slavery! I'm sorry what? While the US president goes about his job of destroying the global economy he's now imposing a slavery tariff? Wow. Just wow.

Back in Victoria the land of the corrupt, Barbie is facing fresh teacher trouble as schools say no to the latest pay offer. Allan will be dark there is descent in the ranks because she needs all those lovely public servants voting for her. If she loses the public servant vote then maybe she loses the election?

The Luke Sayers dick pic scandal looks all set to be played out in public in November. The application to have the case heard behind closed doors has been denied and so it's dick pics at the ready. How's that saying go? Hell hath no fury?

Over in the US Sports Illustrated has been presenting its Swim suit parade where only real women were invited to participate. While the star of the show was Penny Lane, 55 year old reality TV star Bethenny Frankel who also appeared in a swimsuit has been criticised on social media for? Well I'm not exactly sure to be honest. Frankel is as fit a 55 year old female as you'll see but has somehow been criticised for being so? As much as the Sports Illustrated event was indeed all about promoting real women it seems age is a number that stops people showing off how they look?

IS LABOR CLEANING HOUSE?

We don't like to mention the war, ie Covid but who remembers how many people Ayatollah Andrews pushed under the Dan Bus during those two god awful years? Andrews would be everyone's best mate til they said the wrong thing, did the wrong thing or didn't tow the party line. Dan would make a call to the Dan patrol and boot anyone he needed to straight under the bus. It worked. He never lost an election and today lives in peace and harmony with his fellow dictators.

With a state election looming in Victoria and with Allan about as on the nose as a phone call to a mate about some security for a quarantine program she is no doubt planning her own bus

Route. The first stop? Mick Gatto. Now Mick is a colourful character and why he was arrested by Victoria Police is a matter for those concerned but it appears he could well be the first one under the bus.

Allan has of course denied any wrong doing when it comes to the $15 billion that's allegedly missing from the big build projects but now that she's supposedly tightening up IBAC powers she's on a mission to show she's trying to make a difference. Allan has said she has time and time again she and her government are taking action on big build sites and taking a stand against crime gangs and so they arrest Mick and his wife?

While Mick was released without charge you have to ask who gets arrested next? If Allan is serious about cleaning up the big build and corruption on work sites then surely Mick Gatto isn't the only one getting arrested? I mean the police and the government have other suspects don't they? Ones that may not be so well known that can create headlines? They will arrest other people won't they?

The next question though is who in the Labor Party circle is going under the Barbie bus? Andrews threw a number of his own ministers under his bus so who's first under Barbies? I have a list of the ones I'd like to see but I bet I don't see them go.

So many fingers in so many pies and Labor need most of them gone in the lead up to the election. Will we see any more arrests? Well it depends who Allan sacrifices or who doesn't toe the line, but it's going to be an interesting arse covering few months.

I CAN'T BREATHE

When a US police officer stood on the throat of George Floyd, Floyd gasped the words, I can't breathe. The death of George Floyd gave birth to the Black lives matter movement and again showed the racial discrimination black people in the US face on a daily basis.

In the UK, the phrase I can't breathe has again been uttered as a dying man lay in handcuffs accused of racially abusing a Sikh who had in fact stabbed him. Henry Nowak an 18 year old had been detained by police after an altercation with Vickrun Digwa a 21 year old Sikh. Somehow police didn't realise that Nowak had been stabbed! When they arrived on scene they handcuffed the bleeding Nowak who had been stabbed by Digwa with a 21 inch ceremonial sword.

The allegation from Digwa was that Nowak had tried to take his turban off and racially abused him. For this Nowak was handcuffed. Nowak drowned in his own blood handcuffed lying on the ground as Digwa protested racial discrimination.

After Nowaks death become public knowledge riots and protests broke out in the centre of Southampton with crowds angry at the death of Nowak. The UK for months now has been at boiling point. A population sick and tired of immigrants supposedly taking over the country and being allowed to do as they please. Racial discrimination being used as a tool by migrants to justify their behaviours and to pander to leftist government who have allowed the country to get out of control.

The issue for the UK is that migration has failed on catastrophic level and while immigrants helped build much of what the UK now is, like here in Australia migrants are now a massive burden on a society that cannot cope.

A few weeks ago the UK right wing figure Tommy Robinson helped stage a mass rally through the streets of the UK with thousands turning up. People in the UK have had enough of racial tension and with this shift away from the left it is highly likely that Nigel Farage will be the next UK PM. Will he make a difference? Maybe but right now the UK stands on the brink of civil unrest unlike many others seen.

TRUMP REALLY IS BAD NEWS FOR THE WORLD

I'm sorry to all our US readers but what the fucking hell is Trump doing now?! Not only has he started wars he can't finish he's now imposing tariffs on countries complicit in slavery? What?!

There was a time when Trump could have been good for the world. He was the leader to rid the world of leftist wokes who had pushed us all beyond the boundaries of common sense, but now he's the so called leader that has pretty much broken the global economy. Enough already!

This latest tariff on Australia is insane. We are now being penalised for being part of a system that allows slavery? Is Trump now the one who is managing global employment standards? Who the hell does he think he is? The Iran war has done nothing but kick up fuel prices, the Ukraine war continues, Israel is now blowing up whoever they want and there is unparalleled division in the US all for what? The ego and self interest of a billionaire!?

Trump could've definitely made America great again, but right now he's running the risk that it will never be great again. While Trump says how much he loves the US of A most of what he's doing is for self interest and that's never happened in the history of the Presidency. Yes pockets have been lined but not like this. This is a president hell bent on economic destruction and prosperity for one person, himself.

Would JD Vance or Marco Rubio be any better? Well yes, at this point my dog goose would be a better option, but it's in the hands of Americans and we hope they get it right next time around.

SOUL

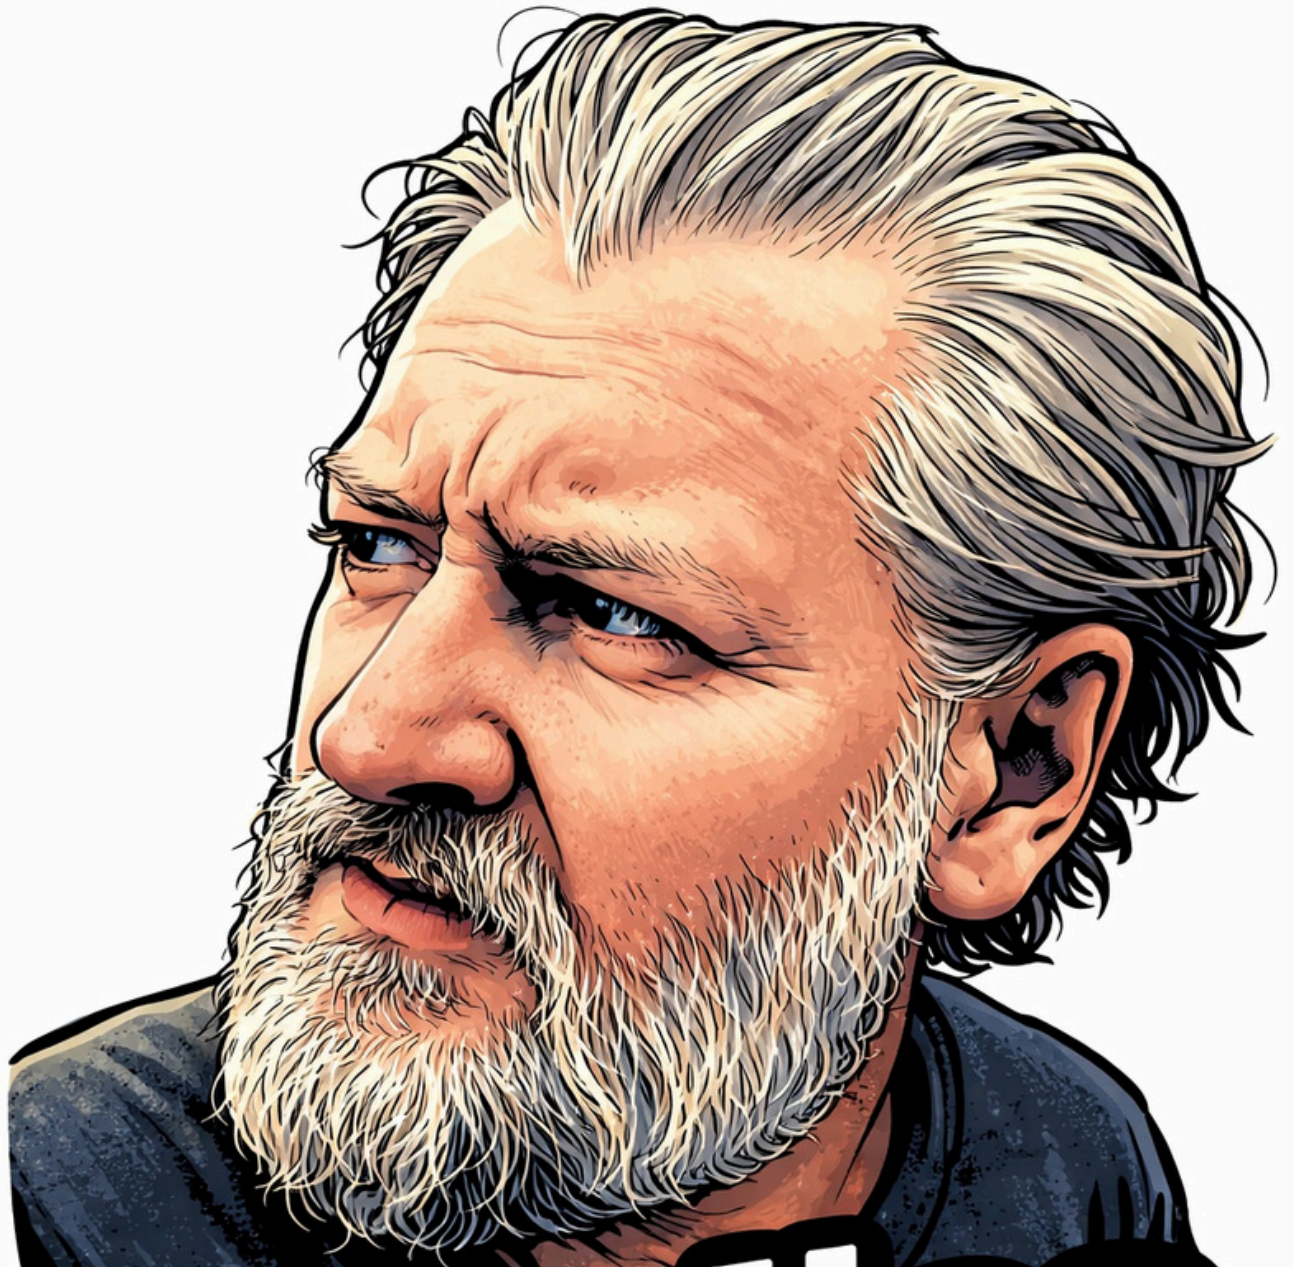

Ai will never replace humans

You know why Ai will never in our life time take over our lives completely? Because it can't understand or comprehend human emotion. Will it ever be able to? No it won't.

See humans are pretty resilient and committed to the things they deem as important. An ai run bit of tech can come up with likely solutions, can run a probability pattern to predict outcomes, but that's all data based. It's decision making doesn't come from an emotional perspective, it comes from a rational and logical perspective...that's why it fails.

Humans, well some of them will never give up on a goal, a dream or a life they want. Many people would make life changing decisions not based on fact but rather on emotion. They may quit a job to become an entrepreneur and tell themselves everyday they'll make it work, when an ai bot will say don't quit your job, stay where you are and be happy. Humans when they quit a job are often not thinking rationally. An ai bot will give you its plan for your exit but never offer over emotional knife throwing craziness.

I'm not saying we want the knife throwing craziness every day but the Ai bot may be able to pick up on signals and when it's time to head off to the bed. Ai has the chance to change the world, and we are already seeing changes, but we need to hang on to who we are. Ai is one of those invention that you could barely understand when you first came across it, but now with it everywhere we need to be very careful about what we let it take away from us. We need to keep our humanity, our unpredictability, our love, our emotions and our souls. Ai will be given an update to learn about human nature but it will never replace us and neither dam well should it
