SUNDAY HOODIES

IT'S EASY BEING
GREEN AFTER ALL

EDITORIAL

I'm sorry but does anyone else think it's all a bit weird that we had 40,000 people, mainly of Indian descent, every available politician and Albo at Docklands fawning over the Indian PM? Bendigo Barbie was there giving a speech in a very fetching Indian appealing green number crapping on about how welcome Indians were to vote for her at the next election. I have a dream that we are created green said Barbie, she didn't exactly say that but some have suggested she was amongst the crowd later handing out how to vote cards.

While MP's from both sides of the political divide were out trying to get selfies with Modi the man himself must have been sitting there thinking, are these dumbass whiteys for real? Modi not only came to Oz to say hello to all the Indian doctors, engineers and chefs in Australia but he also came for our uranium! Uranium we don't use! Uranium that Modi will take back to India to turn into cheap nuclear energy for the people of India. As Albo wriggled in for another cuddle Modi must have thought what a successful trip, all I have to do is cuddle this moron, wave and play a game of cricket. So much for Australia being proud of its independence.

As the media and politicians try to slot Telstra I'm sticking with the company's CEO, Vicki Brady. Yes Telstra stuffed up, but the ensuing public attacks from the media and political parties is a massive opportunity at diversion so let's keep our eyes on what's happening outside in the real world away from Telstra.

It's pretty obvious that while Jacinta Allan thinks it's easy being green after all she's in deep trouble when it comes to the November election. She's thinks she's in that much trouble that she's not going to be able to rely on the minor parties who weasel their way into office via group voting. Now if you want an exact definition of the group voting system Google it but it's how Labor got the My left foot and the woke morons of Victoria parties into parliament, however their time is up! So now Labor will just have to rely on the greens and their own votes to keep the corruption train moving in Victoria and good luck with that!

By the way we can announce the new number plate tag line for Victoria!

VICTORIA - Namaste

While Australia is working out whether or not to change its name to Wokestralia over in the US, New York collectivist lefty mayor of New York, Zohran Mamdani has had a map of New York made. Nothing new there, but wait my friends there is, because Zohran has called his map the immigrant enclaves of New York. He's got;

Little Bangladesh, Little India, Little Ukraine, Egypt, Pakistan and even little Palestine but his glaring omission? The one part of New York that gave New Yorkers their famous accent? Little Italy, yes folks the immigrants that are actually the backbone of New York are no longer worthy of being part of a map highlighting immigrant communities in the big apple...start spreading the news the the Italians are pissed and Mamdani might be leaving today.

And finally RIP to Derryn Hinch, the man that stood up for what he believed and left us for the big microphone in the sky. We say farewell great man, that's life and you will be missed.

PAULINE'S UK TOUR

What can you say about Pauline Hanson except that she's going to do things her way and why not? The issue that people have with major parties and mainstream media is that neither are listening to real people. Politicians and bureaucrats don't do anything differently to actually help with cost of living for one and people have about as much trust in the media as they do in Fagan and the artful dodger.

Hanson is currently in the UK meeting and getting all sorts of people including the man who supposedly got Karl Stefanovic sacked, Tommy Robinson. Tommy has his own podcast in the UK and not only wanted to interview Pauline but then wanted to show her around his old home town of Luton. Pauline was more than accommodating not only going on the podcast but also having a whistle stop tour of Luton where she saw how many Muslim shop fronts there were and how many prayer centres there were. Tommy got abused by a few not original locals and Pauline said she hoped Australia never became like Luton.

There is no doubt that Hanson is seriously upsetting the norms of political office and with her new found popularity she's not holding back on what she thinks is the future. The biggest mistake that the majors are making though? Letting her get to them. Both Albo and Taylor have both voiced major concerns about One Nation forming government and what happens?! Boom higher polling numbers for One Nation! Boys! Shut up!

For Pauline Hanson though, today Tommy Robinson and Karl Stefanovic, tomorrow Joe Rogan and Tucker Carlson? But she won't be on the ABC anytime soon.

ALBO FAILS TO READ THE ROOM...AGAIN

Have we as Australians ever seen a more pathetic and wet leader as Albo? Who didn't love Bob Hawke? Howard, Keating, Fraser all men of distinction, yes opposite sides of the divide but leaders who lead. It's all really been downhill from 2007 when Rudd became PM, yes we had Gillard for a bit, but then Rudd again followed by Abbott, Turnbull, Somo and now Albo. It's really bad, but Albo is the worst of the lot of them.

Albo isn't defining what modern Australia is, he's defining everything it shouldn't be. It shouldn't be losing its identity, an identity we were very proud of it the Sydney Olympics, at the Melbourne Comm games, in 1988 at the bicentennial and yet now with migrants being able to vote and housing being unaffordable for a good portion of the country we're not sure who we are?

When Narendra Modi came to Melbourne more than 40,000 Indians came to see him in a stadium. I mean fair play to the Indians for wanting to see the leader of the country they left but which other country in the world pays for a stadium for a visiting dignitary to come and address people from his own country? Who does that? Apparently we do!

And herein is the issue, Australia doesn't want the PM or the Premier bending over for the Indian PM. Australia is a bit over Indians and other migrants making demands of Australia to pander to their wishes, to adhere to how they live and just wear the changes being made. That doesn't make anyone a racist because this is our home, this is our way of life and migrants left their homes to come here.

Albo will tell us welcoming Modi was all about making Australia a more welcoming multicultural society, to develop international relations and to encourage more Indians to come to Australia, bullshit! It's about votes, it is quite rightly about money but it's also about getting more lefty Indians in the country to keep Labor in power.

Modi must have laughed his arse off at Albo as well. I mean who sells a critical mineral to another country to assure that country of cheap energy and doesn't use it themselves?! I mean seriously.

Good luck to Modi and to any other foreign dignitary that can come to Australia do deals with Albo and drop off a few more boat loads of the people from their own country they can't afford to feed. It's genius really and Albo is stupid enough to buy it so long as the new arrivals know they have to vote Labor.

BYE BYE ANGUS

Well the knifing of the first female Liberal leader of the federal party did what exactly for the Libs? Absolutely nothing, in fact it made things worse. Yes all those middle aged and boomer white people who wanted their say in the future of the party fucked it. It's so fucked now you have to suggest if team liberal doesn't pick up the phone to Pauline their future is nowhere.

Taylor has had his moment in the sun. He and Jane Hume have tried the good cop, bad cop routine and it has fallen flat. Both of them are decent people, hard working liberals who have absolutely no idea what modern conservatism is all about, they're cooked and so is the party.

It is staggering that a party built on freedom of the individual, the right to live your life the way you choose etc can be so lost when the world and Australia is screaming out for the opportunity to get away fro government. Taylor needed to buy into the idea of One Nation and not listen to the party faithful who look down their conceited noses at One Nation. They needed to acknowledge the orange wave and say we are both of the right and we might not agree on everything but we are united in our dislike of Labor. Then later do preference deals with Pauline to cripple Labor, instead? Andrew Hastie could be Liberal leader and that's ridiculous!

Traditional conservatism, god, king and country is no longer a reality. Conservatism is about people having freedom to choose, to live a life they want, to feel safe in their homes, to not be dictated to by governments, to have opportunity, to have the chance to build something of their own and keep it, to own a home, to live under one united flag and to be proud of the country they live in. To welcome migrant populations, to help them find their way and enjoy the Australian dream. That's modern conservatism and yet Taylor couldn't understand it or define it and it will at some stage soon cost him the job he's always wanted.

MEDIA & POLITICAL SPIN OVER TELSTRA

Vicki Brady the CEO of Telstra will never say anything she shouldn't in public but I bet that away from the microphones, the cameras and the muck raking so called journalists she'll be saying, don't you love it when the government and the media have a distraction to kick down the road! That distraction for the next few weeks is of course Telstra.

Unlike in government corporations actually do their jobs properly, they have systems and processes to check and they have very very serious protocols to stick to in an emergency situation. When the Telstra emergency occurred the company followed those protocols and when the system said it's time to call the CEO that's what it did. Brady was overseas but regardless of time her Teams message popped up and said we have an issue. The CFO took charge as per the protocols given the CEO was on leave and within 24 hours the CEO was back in Australia at a press conference dealing with the matter at hand.

Now the politicians will drag Brady before a senate hearing to demand answers! Why weren't you contacted earlier about this issue? Why weren't you in the country? Why did this happen? Who is paying the compensation to the poor hard working families who were inconvenienced by your incompetence? Fuck! Off! The whole thing will be a diversion from the fact that in Victoria alone we haven't had Jacinta Allan dragged before a senate hearing into the big build rorts! A diversion from how incompetent politicians are and that we seem ok to sell off minerals but won't use them ourselves! Hypocrisy at best moronic at worst!

So when Vicki Brady is being grilled by Anika piss taking Wells or interrogated by Sarah I needed to call 000 to check Henderson have some sympathy for Brady because while Telstra do need to lift their game the dog and pony show is a big bunch of bullshit.

CULTURE

Black face and the Moor

To be black or not to be black that is the question, whether it is nobler in the mind or just a bunch of woke bullshit because no matter who plays or sings Othello they need to be black.

Now I know the play came before the opera but given both were written by men at the peak of their powers and equal levels of genius they share the same artistic merits, but what is true to both the opera and the play is that their main character is black. Up until ten years ago the heroic tenor would don the black makeup to appear as the moor, the same for the play and why not? Of the play and the opera audiences expected to see a black lead, how does a white Othello grasp a white handkerchief and feel betrayal? The point is lost, yes the text can carry some of the story but any visual betrayal is lost.

When Lawrence Oliver saw Placido sing Otello the great actor said, not only can the bastard sing it he can act it as well. Act and sing Otello did Domingo but he did it in black makeup as did Oliver, as did every other great actor and singer in the history of the role until now. Until an era where suggesting white people can be black is offensive even if they're portraying a character from a famous play or opera.

Yes seeing Denzel Washington play Othello would be amazing, Lawrence Fishburn was a brilliant Othello, the only black Otello at the moment in the world is the American Russell Thomas, everyone else who sings the role or plays it can't now wear black face to play it. But here's the thing you know what we do allow now? You know what the wokes have said is ok? While we can't have a white man sing or play Othello we can have men dress up as women and use female only bathrooms. Oh the hypocrisy of it all.

Iago to Othello - "Men should be what they seem; Or those that be not, would they might seem none!" (Act 3, Scene 3)

CULTURE

What's a man?

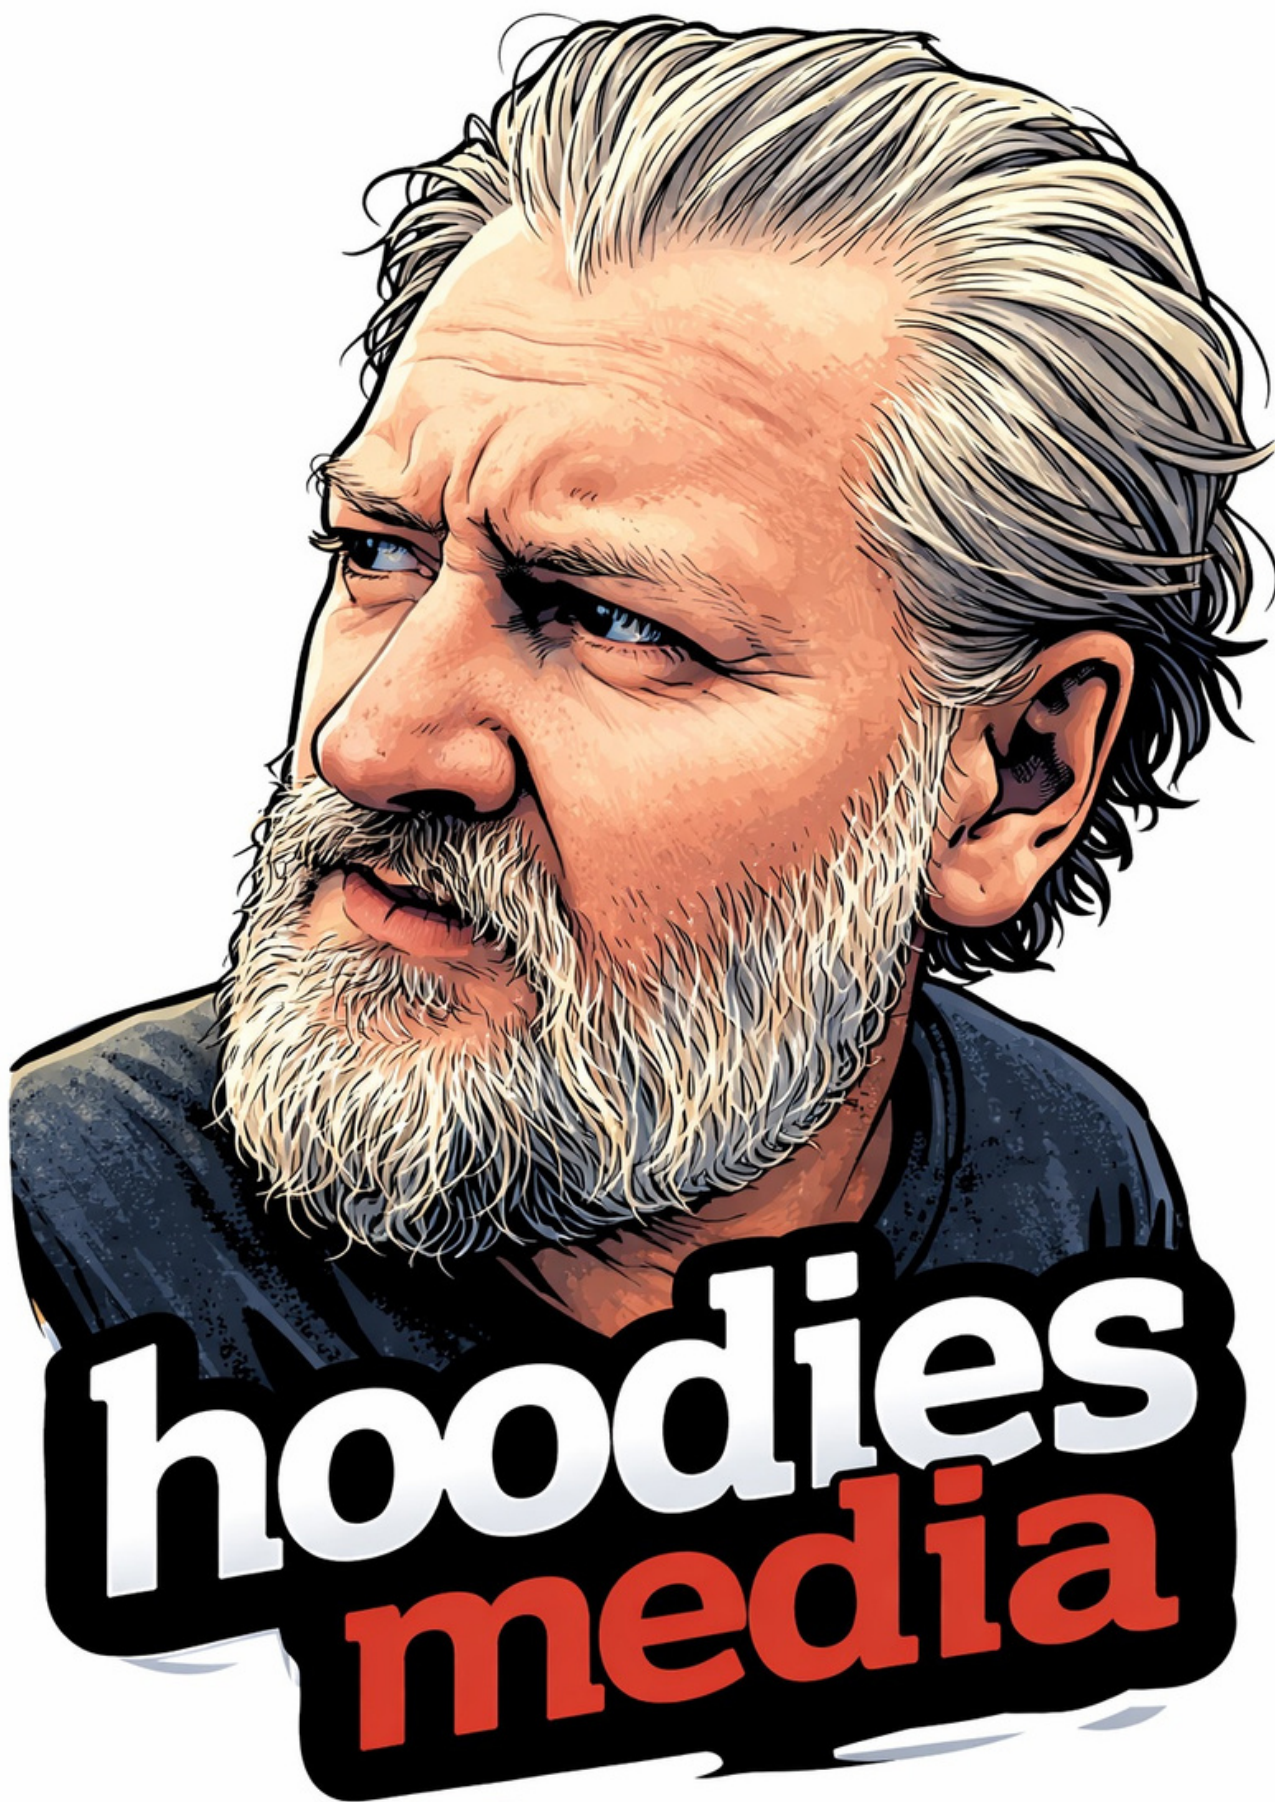

Are men too afraid to be men today? Have men lost their way so much that they're just sponges for toxic masculinity, for poor behaviour and the lack of ambition to achieve anything meaningful? No matter their age are they just living in an online world that prevents them from getting out and being men, doing men stuff and saying hey it's ok to be a man in modern society.

Now look being a man in 2026 isn't about misogyny but it's about being able to communicate with women, it's about making the first move and asking someone out, nicely, not trying to be a fuck with from the moment you lay eyes on a female. And no I'm not neglecting gay men but you can harden the fuck up as well! Seriously men need to be men! When was the last time we didn't see a bunch of raging morons show up at award ceremonies wearing fuck knows what by fuck knows who saying they're freeing Palestine for the trans gay people of the world! Fuck! Off! Go get a bottle of vodka, a packet of Marlboro reds and a bunch of hookers and be real movie stars!

Lads! Who ever gets up at 4am and journals does yoga, runs, takes cold plunges, talks about feelings and cries before he has his muesli can fuck off! You're a dick head and you bought all the followers you have on instagram. Real men drink beer, can have conversation, can be confident, should lift weights and should care about those most dear to them. They should be able to provide, they should be able to talk to their partners and should be a good dad.

Being a man isn't about being soft cock! It's not about contemplating the world and sooking your way through it, it's about being real, it's about not giving two fucks what anyone thinks about you and being confident enough to run your own race away from what anyone thinks!

Men need to be the men their grandmother would be proud of, confident, loving, caring, determined, honest, respectful, hardworking and dedicated to those they love and committed to being better versions of themselves everyday. Thats it, that's being a man and any man in a dress well best stay out of the bathrooms my wife and daughters use.
